History

The Latino/Latina Social Workers Network of NASW/CT was formed in 1997 to address the needs of Latino/a social workers. The Network involved itself in advocacy efforts to encourage the Connecticut State University System's four state universities to recruit and retain more Latino/a students, faculty and staff, collaborated on a statewide conference and other efforts to improve foster care services for Latino/a children and offered opportunities for Latino/a social workers to network through social events. The Network was disbanded in 2000 largely due to a transition of staffing in the NASW/CT office. The Network was restarted in 2002 with a kick off reception at the chapter's annual conference.
